Preface

The book is the result of a course here given for over a course of preparation not more than two years. A large portion of the material was written long ago and the changes which that time would bring to an American text could not all be introduced in the text. Moreover, a willingness to omit, as very desirable, the part on

Introduction

Sardanapalus or in the Assyrian Assur-Assur-bani-pal was the last but one king

Under the mighty power of Assyria was already on the wane. Though the interior was as the invulnerable tablet which its name attests was as high as its height.

He was the son of Esarhaddon 681-669 B.C. and the grandson of Sennacherib (705-681) the founder of the dynasty from 722-705.

In Assyrian Assur-bani-pal

The first part of the report is a general introduction to the subject of the study. It discusses the importance of the problem and the objectives of the research. The second part is a detailed description of the experimental methods used. This includes a description of the apparatus, the materials used, and the procedures followed. The third part is a discussion of the results obtained. This includes a comparison of the experimental results with theoretical predictions and a discussion of the factors that may have influenced the results. The final part is a conclusion and a list of references.

(For the report, the error in the distance between 2A and B is a later pronunciation of the value obtained)

The following table shows the results of the experiment. The first column is the distance between 2A and B, and the second column is the value obtained. The third column is the error in the distance between 2A and B.

Distance between 2A and B	Value obtained	Error in the distance between 2A and B 10.0	2.0	0.1
20.0	4.0	0.2
30.0	6.0	0.3
40.0	8.0	0.4
50.0	10.0	0.5

lower sea for the ^{contamination} protection of my principdom, and agreed that I should receive the government of them. He came then to promise rather than to do what he had to do, giving the word.

In joy and gladness I entered the town in artistic chamber, retreat of royalty, where I received my grandfather's promise to marry the king's daughter, whom I had never seen, and who had grown up and exercised the government of Acyria

Its gods, its goddesses, its jewelry, its treasures and its people, small and great I carried off to Assyria.

60 double leagues, by command of Assur and Pitar who led me I entered into Elam and marched northward to the city of Susa. There I found the king of Elam, Sinsirib, and his people. At Susa the king of Elam and his people were gathered together. By command of Assur and Pitar I entered into Susa and I opened up their treasures. There were silver vessels and golden vessels and vessels of copper, which the former king of Elam together with those of later times had gathered and made, but which another king had not brought to Susa.
I brought all and counted all gold, the silver and property and treasure of Susa. I also counted all which the king of Elam had gathered together and brought into the midst of Elam and Susa. There were silver vessels, golden vessels, vessels of copper, and the vessels of Elam.

and Samas-ukin for their alliance had paid to Elam, garments, hangings insignia of royalty, weapons fitted for war, whatever was fitted for making battle, wreaths, quivers, bows, arrows, spears, shields, and made the libation, chariots, carts, and weapons whose rims were of gold and alabaster, horses in large numbers with their trappings of gold and silver to come to Assyria.

The temple tower of Susa, whose tower had been built in the time of the garden, its form which was featured of brilliant workmanship. The gate of the rock which stood in secret place was, when seen, made in the form of a lion, and Togamus, Partolus, the ambassador of the king, looked upon the king of the land. The king of Assyria, having received the news, that when he had entered Elam. His heart heavy, he meditated sorrow in his life pensive in his eyes and he longed for they fled and embraced my feet I made them captives and added them to the Pardon I granted, and I made him swear to covenants in the name of the great gods and I appointed him to the kingship of Arabia in the place of Uthair son of Huzail but he was not satisfied with the conditions the oath of the great gods did not please him and he carried away the spoils of the houses of my countrymen.

By the help of Assar, son, Samas, Kamman Bel, who, ruler of Hamath, ruler of Adram, ruler of Arabia, ruler of Huzail, ruler Nathan King of Nabataea, whose place was vacant, a man from Hamath had heard of the might of Assar who thought he was to be made his ambassador to the king my father had not paid his respect to them before - though some of the nations were fearful of him so he became great and his power was my glory.

And Assar son of Samas the son and in Ayal drank well water.

From Ayal to Kurait, a place of thirst and exhaustion, they marched 6 double leagues. There I besieged the tribe of Atar Sumer the Kedarite noble, eldest son of Kedar, king of Arabia. His gods, his mother, his sisters, his wife, his family, all of the people of the tent of Kedar, asses, camels and sheep, as many as by the help of Assur and Ishtar my hands had conquered, I sent on the road to the westward.

In the month of Ab, the month of the Ban star, of the month daughter of Sin on the third day, a festival of the king of the gods Marduk, I departed from Durmasu 6 double leagues I marched through the night and came to Habbat the station the following morning I overcame the tribe of Abates son of of Kedar the mountain I accomplished. I named my son Hattai, Abates and Am the sons of Hattai by command of Allah and I star my hands, my hands took alive in the struggle of battle. Fingers of ~~my~~ I placed on their hands and feet and with the ~~use~~ of the ~~mountain~~ I brought them to Khyf.

The fugitives who had fled before my weapons, and through fear had taken to Huturum, the inaccessible mountain, I placed in Manhatti, Akkar, Jenukur, Zauran, Markana and ~~Iran~~ Iran, wherever there were springs and wells of water watches over them, and cut off water the life of their souls. Drink I made scarce to their mouths and in thirst and ~~starvation~~ they died.

The survivors cut up the camels, their riding beasts for their thirst they drank the blood and filthy water of the ~~who~~ who had ascended the mountains, had entered and taken refuge one did not escape a robb did not go out of my hands, where there refuge was there my hand reached them people, male and female, asses, camels, oxen and sheep without number. I carried away to Assyria.

The whole of my country which Assur had given me, to its entire extent they filled. I distributed camels to the people of Assyria throughout the whole of my country. In the market place they were valued at a half shekel of silver. The rich could buy them for a mish, the peasant for a kabe measure, the gardener for a kabe which I had established for the sale of camels and asses.

82 Hathi with his troops, who did not keep my treaty and had fled before the weapons of Assur my lord, Sulara the warrior cast down hangings he set among them so that for food they ate the flesh of their children.

83 The curse which was written in their treaties, Assur, son Samsar, he was the Nusku the Babylon messenger, who gave abundance to my dominion, who by command of Assur and Belit the mighty heroine went at my side and protected my majesty the front of my army took and filled my enemies.

I in a vision of wisdom heard of the coming of the weapons of Assur and Ishtar the great gods, my lords, who had gone on all-making battle, they revolted against him. He became afraid and fled from his home and escaped. By the power of Assur, son, Samas, Nusku, Bel, Hebo, Ishtar of Niniveh queen of his mother, Ishtar of Arbela, Adar, Nergal, Nusku my hands reached him and I brought him to the land of Assyria; prayers for the conquest of my enemies I offered.

By command of Assur and Belit I made him a sign, stone of the hand his right, in the left of the left, I put a sharp point a dog collar I placed on him, and at the same my army. In the struggle of battle I took him alive in my hand, in Niniveh the city of my enemy I stayed off his skin.

Ummaraldas King of Haman, whom Assur and Istar my lord had from remote times set to do in Assyria - by command of their noble council conspiring, his country afterwards revolted against him and he fled alone before the ^{power} which he could make against him and fled to the mountains ⁱⁿ the mountains, the name of his refuge whither he had fled I hunted him like a ^{bird} and took him alive to Assyria.

Sammardu, Rai and Ummaraldas who had after wards conducted the government of Haman in Assyria were taken by the might of Assur and Istar my lord I had subjected to my yoke, and Ummaraldas King of Arabia whose overthrow, by the hand of Assur and Istar I had ^{re-} completed and whom I had taken from his country to Assyria was the smoke of the sacrifices had gone up which I had made in E-bar-bar the dwelling of their lordship before before the mouth of the great gate, behind the of Assur and before the gate of the temple I harnessed of the gate of my palace as far as the gate of the temple they were me. I bowed myself down, adored them devoutly and in the assembly of my soldiers magnified the might of Assur. Sin, Sarsa, Kassar, Bel, Nabu, Ishtar of Niniveh, queen of Kidmeer, Ishtar of Arbela, Adar, Nergal and Nebo who had delegated the disobedient to my gate and in victory and strength had established me in my dwelling.

The king of Urartu whom father had sent brotherhood to my father, when he saw the mighty thing which the great god had done to me, like a son to his father he sent a message to my majesty; and he sent to me in these words: Peace to my land the King Reverently and submissively he sent his heavy presents to my presence.

At that time the Haron of the Palace in Niniveh, the noble city, delight of Babylon, which Sennacherib King of Assyria, the father who begot me, had made as his royal dwelling - that Haron in joy and gladness became old, its walls fell into ruins

I, Assurbanipal, the great King, mighty King, King of the universe, King of Assyria, King of the four regions, in that time grew up. Assur, Sin, Lamas, Resaim, Istar, Nisro, Istar of Nimrod, queen of Sidon, Istar of Arbela, queen of the gods, Adar, Mergal - Nuskur preserved them, their apparent. Their great protection, their protection of Ishtar they spread over me. When I sat on the throne of the Palace the light of the crown of the land of my father and people.

In my time it might be made possible my design in the morning my various uses made clear

The great gods had used the place for great time I collected the same the walls I destroyed it entirely 50 tikke, the site of it and I built the house I filled up before the temple of the great gods my lords, and the building of that terrace I did not make very high in a good month on a favorable day, opposite that mound I had its foundation, I set up its brick work with drink and wine I made its wall overflow.

Weapons which by command of the great gods my lords, I had carried off, the people of my country carried the bricks to make that house a chain of small things I carried them from the same stem is mîru. cut Arab. جرب (cf. Haupt, Hebraica Vol 1: 180) The stem גרב means in Assyrian to send q. I 124, III 21, V 124 and VII 27. Sen.

VI 22 From it we have the derivative murrâ - leader (cf. Sennacherib VI 22). The more original signification of the stem is preserved in the Ethiopic ጠረጠ "dewy, moist" ጠረጠ meaning "magister, teacher", mîru accordingly means "to lead". The original meaning of the stem is also preserved in the Hebrew גרב "skilled, versed".

Lyon (Assyrian Manual) sets up a stem גרב . Marû "male" with long u is probably to be connected with Arabic مروء مروء šarru - stem שר šar pl šarrî or šarârû Heb. שר prince, the feminine to this is the well known name Sarah שרה standing for שרה as is shown by the 𐤲𐤱𐤲 transcription Σ Ḷ Ḷ Ḷ (cf. Haupt Hebraica Vol 1: 175 and BAT p. 100 note 1) D. Dietrich derives šarru from šarârû "to be brilliant" from which stem we have a derivative šarârû. The abstract noun "kingdom" is šarrûtu.

Rabi - adj. fem. rabitu pl. rabiti hem Ethiopic ራብ: I cite in the grammatical portion of his Assyriocher Lesestücke (3rd edition page XI) as evident that there is no difference in Assyrian between verbs tertiary 1 and 2 and 3. While it is quite true that as a rule verbs with the third stem consonant were in Assyrian form their imperfect in i there seem to be some exceptions to the rule. Some verbs for instance 122), 170 noun from rubû - rubîtu "grandeur" ; narbû, nirbû 𐤏𐤓𐤕𐤓 which according to Hommel is to be read 𐤏𐤓𐤕𐤓 "lord of wisdom" from which Sin would seem to be a contraction. (cf. Delitzsch in Lotz, Keilschrift p. 10) It frequently occurs as an element in proper though ~~I prefer to read ezze~~ pl. ezzi^{ti} VII 53 occurs. The 5 is 52 and the 𐤏4 hence Aramean to be derived the adjective 𐤏5𐤏4 "mighty" G. IR 52:3.

RūKâte pl. to rūKāte - "remote" feminine šūKāte pl. šūKāti. The stem is r-k-t in Arabic transcription r-k-t , so that we should naturally expect a form rēkū like rēmu "grace" and šēru "morning". That such a form did exist seems quite probable. In the Borsippa inscription we find written ūm 𐎠𐎢𐎡𐎢 𐎠𐎢𐎡𐎢 𐎠𐎢𐎡𐎢 𐎠𐎢𐎡𐎢 ri. e. ku. tem, so too the plural form rūKāte occurs VII 120

Jennachert II 10 and IV 14. To explain nibitu we must either assume that the bit is a loan word, the e being the result of imbitu or else assume that at some period of the language it was pronounced ie. Such a dialectical interchange occurs for example in the Assyrian rendering of the name of Egypt Misur as against Hebrew מִצְרַיִם or Arabic مصر Hebrew פִּיט Ethiopic ጊተ Amharic ጊት

4 Nibit - const. of nibitu (written ni-bit-tu but to be pronounced nibitu for nibi'tu) from nabû to speak imperf. ibû or imû pres. inambû (cf. I 109) Heb נָבַא Arabic ناب Ethiopic ገለ

It is written (Bonoppa I 2) 𐎠𐎡𐎢 𐎠𐎡𐎢 𐎠𐎡𐎢 re-ā is a stem or 𐎠𐎡𐎢 𐎠𐎡𐎢 𐎠𐎡𐎢 or more commonly (St 213, II R 13:55) 𐎠𐎡𐎢 𐎠𐎡𐎢 𐎠𐎡𐎢. Jensen (ZK I 306) and Zimmermann (Babyl. Assyr. 38) to be of Semitic origin from a stem γ ω δ with feminine(?) or inflected. As a planet $\dot{Y}atar$ is identified with Venus. The star in Assyrian Babylonian is called Dilbat (ZK 49:11 which is to be correlated to 𒌷𒌆𒌵 𒌷𒌆𒌵 | 𒌷𒌆𒌵 𒌷𒌆𒌵), The Old Testament form of $\dot{Y}atar$ is יָדִי יָדִי יָדִי יָדִי יָדִי יָדִי יָדִי whence Ἰαφροσίτη was derived. It seems to me very likely that the name Esther Hebrew אֶסְתֵּר is the same word, she being called after a Babylonian goddess just as Mordecai was after Marduk. If this is so it would present another interesting case of the substitution of the a vowel under the influence of the preceding i $\dot{Y}atar$ for $\dot{Y}atar$. The o for ω presents no difficulty such, as is well-known, having been its pronunciation in the later Assyrian period. The month Elul - August - September, IV 24, V 36) From the same stem we have the "oath" Syr. 𐤎𐤍𐤏𐤍 derived from a stem 𐤎𐤍𐤏𐤍 which would be in Assyrian 𐤎𐤍𐤏𐤍 (see Haupt's glossary in Schröder's KAT) It is possible that the difficult 𐤎𐤍𐤏𐤍 of Egar is to be referred to the stem. From it there is a well known dary formation in Assyrian tamû "to swear, cause to pronounce". In a syllabary II R 11: 18 gk (cited by Guy. § 201)

Abstract

The purpose of this study is to investigate the effect of the independent variable on the dependent variable. The research method used is quantitative research with a descriptive approach.

The data obtained from the field is then analyzed using statistical methods. The results of the study show that there is a significant difference between the two groups.

The findings of this study can be used as a reference for future research in the same field.

Keywords: independent variable, dependent variable, statistical analysis, quantitative research, descriptive approach.
